ANNUAL EXHIBITION OF THE ONTARIO SOCIETY OF ARTISTS

The 62nd Annual Exhibition of the Ontario Society of Artists, to be held during March, forms the third of a series of unusually interesting displays of recent months; following the retrospective exhibition of Canadian art of early days, and that of the French Impressionists of the last century. From each of these periods of artistic activity modern art in Canada received much of its inspiration; and its development, while slow and reserved, bears evidence of the tendency to combine the fine qualities of the pioneer art with the newer emotional expressions and technical practices of the more advanced French school.

While these two sources of influence, one of a native tradition, the other of adventure and experiment, are in decided conflict in many respects, the Canadian painter has sought to present the life and character of his own country unhampered by any slavish respect for established idioms of other schools. Whatever is great in the work of the modern artist in Canada is founded in a restrained and impartial eclecticism, that selects for the presentation of an unique subject matter, the most useful ideas and practices from every source.

The growth of a characteristic Canadian art, to which the Ontario Society has contributed a large share for over sixty years, has been due largely to the devotion and enthusiasm of the creative artist, whose work in the present exhibition will mark a new advance in the interpretation of the Canadian scene.
